CHANGES IN THE STAFF.

Until the war broke out, the history of the University teaching staff was a record not so much of changes as of annual additions. With the halt in the growth of the student body occasioned by the war, additions were no longer necessary, and with the absorption of a large proportion of the staff in war work of various kinds changes and temporary substitutions have become very marked—especially this year.

In the Department of History, where the conscientious work of the late Lieutenant Stanley Fife will long be sorely missed, temporary assistance is being given by Mr. Thomas Marsden, M.A. (Cantab.) The two departments which have suffered most severely, however are those of Physics and Philosophy. In the former Professor Boyle is working with Sir Ernest Rutherford in the Physics Laboratories of the University of Manchester; Mr. Smith is engaged in scientific work in connection with aviation for the British Government, and Mr. MacLeod, as we all know, has gone to the front with the 196th O. Batt. as Senior Captain of the University of Alberta Company. Owing to the absence of so many students the courses called for are much fewer than before. They are in the hands this year of Dr. Philo Hammond, who comes to us from Leland Stanford University. In the Department of Philosophy, Professor MacEachran has gone overseas as Paymaster with the Western Universities Battalion, while Mr. Lodge resigned to accept a post at the University of Minnesota. Meanwhile the work being given in this department is in charge of Principal Dyde and Mr. William Berry, B.A.

Professor H.H. Moshier, it will be remembered, went to the front in the spring with the rank of Major in the Eleventh Field Ambulance. Mr. W.W. Hole of the School of Pharmacy, is also with this unit. The work of the School is now in charge of Mr. H. H. Gaetz.

Mr. A. D. Cowper received a commission as Captain with the 196th but later transferred to a unit at the front. Mr. W. M. Fife has a commission in the Western Universities Battalion, in which unit Mr. George Robinson formerly Instructor in Mathematics, holds the rank of Sergeant.

Several other members of the staff are missed from amongst us this year. Asst. Professor Robb and Acting Professor Cromarty have joined the Imperial Munitions Board; Asst. Professors Woodhead and Morrison are on leave of absence pursuing further study.

In the Department of Modern Languages, Dr. Wooley having resigned, Dr. John F. Coar, formerly of Harvard and lately of Adelphi College, New York, has been appointed Professor of German.

The Faculty of Agriculture has been strengthened by the appointment of Mr. Kenneth McGregor, B.S.A. (Ames) as Professor of Animal Husbandry.

A MEETING OF THE STUDENTS' UNION.

A meeting of the Students' Union is to be held tomorrow, Wednesday the 15th, at 4.00 p.m. in Room 142 Arts Building. All students are specially requested to be present. Important matters will be dealt with and YOUR decision is wanted.

LADIES.

The women's Athletic Association this year intends to be most active and so far it is living up to its expectations. Basketball at present occupies the attention of the Girls every Tuesday and Thursday after Physical Education. Inter-year games have begun — two teams being formed from the freshettes; one from the Sophomores and one from the Senior Years. The "old girls" rush more eagerly into the game when they see the basket made so calmly by a freshette.

But Girls! hockey will soon be here and then the Seniors expect to do their brilliant work as athletes.

Another deviation permitting women to take women one more step is the idea of the Rifle Club. The girls have sent in a petition to the Club asking permission to join as a Sub-unit for now its "The Man Behind the Gun who does the Work".

We regret the departure of one faithful Waunuta from our midst. Margaret Wilson, who was with us for awhile this year, has entered Strathcona Hospital to train for a nurse.

Miss Taylor of Manitoba Medical College is in reviewing some of her work. The Med' Girls will be glad to have her for in their work they would feel more comfortable with companions.

Professor of Math. — Asks a question.

Freshette—Search Me!
P. O. 4.—Tut! Tut!

Dr Dydes Bible Study Group was well attended last Friday and was very much enjoyed by all. Many interesting questions were brought up and discussed. This hour will be kept next Friday and it is hoped that the enthusiasm will be kept up.

We are proud to see that another Maunuta has come into her own. The Literary Society is fortunate in having for its President Miss Clara May Bell. The Girls are gradually getting a chance "to do their bit" in the different organizations.

Things are not what they seem these days—for these are test days and the Waunutas must review. Sometimes reviewing what you haven't read is a painful process. But they will soon be over and then "We shall rest and faith we shall need it."

UNIVERSITY Y.M.C.A.

This week we inaugurate our campaign for funds to meet the estimated expenditure of the year.

The Budget as passed by the general meeting, is as follows:—

(1) Towards Budget Intercollegiate Y.M.C.A. including Sunday Service, etc.	$ 75.00
(2) General Expenses:
New student Committee.	$15.00
Printing.	10.00
National Council Y.M.C.A. Committee supplies.	25.00
(3) Toward 'University Soldiers' Comfort Club'	60.00
(4) Foreign Towards Mr. Sneyd's support in Yokahoma	200.00
	$435.00

One or two items may require some explanation. Last year we gave $35.00 to the "Comfort Club". This amount, to many seemed altogether too small, and so we offered to collect the $200 needed to send the News Letter each week to those of "Ours" who have left on Active Service. We feel sure that no one connected with the University will grudge some sacrifice to enable us to keep in touch with the men who are giving so much on the battlefields of Europe. If it is wished all, or any part of the subscription can be put down specially for the Comfort Club.

A word may be necessary to those new to our Y.M.C.A. work, about Mr. Sneyd in Japan. Mr. Sneyd is the representative in Yokahoma of the Edmonton 'Y' Associations-City. University and Colleges and his work lies, to some extent among students. Since Mr. Sneyd went to the country three years ago, a Y.M.C.A. building has been erected in Yokahoma by subscriptions raised entirely in that city.

The item of $75. towards the Intercollegiate Budget is in connection with the Sunday Service music, speakers' travelling expenses, etc.

In the absence of Dr. Dyde at the Senior Bible Study group on Wednesday, Dr. Tory acted as leader, and an interesting discussion took place on 'Conscience and World Politics'.

Attendance was rather small owing to the popularity of 'Test' but a full meeting is expected on Nov. 15th when Dr. Tory again will be present and the discussion continued. Dr. Dyde will be back on November 22.

Prof. Barnard is the speaker for November 12 and the Rev. Mr. Driver of Fort Saskatchewan on the following Sunday.

Things have been quite quiet in most lines of athletics this week as all forms of out-door sport have given way to that grand in-doors diversion the term test. With that safely under our belts, we are looking forward to a renewal of interest in sports in general and more especially in the direction of hockey and skating. We understand that the girls' hands are to become cold very early this Fall and a long and successful skating season is thus assured. A meeting of the students Union is to be held at an early date and at that meeting the Athletic Association will have a proposition from the Bursar to present, regarding the operation of the rink for the coming season. It is important that every student interested in this question be at the meeting as the Athletic executive will not undertake to handle the rink or to contract for the use of it unless a large majority of the student body, or at least that portion of it which is in residence, signify their intention of buying tickets. This branch of student activities was a dismal failure last season and the executive are going to take no chances on a similar outcome this year.

The Rugby Club has given up practices for this Fall and all students having suits in their possession are requested to turn the same in as soon as possible.

The Rifle Association is operating most successfully these days and have secured a special Ross target rifle, which is a very superior weapon. Some 25 members have already joined and the list is still growing. At present the range is open for four periods a week: Monday, Wedn. and Friday after four o'clock and Saturday from 1.30 to 3.30. Other periods may be arranged to suit incoming members. Some of the high guns at the first shoot were:

Prof. Edwards,	31
Dr. Revell	31
N. A. Clark	31
F. Lehmann	30
N. Ronning	30

N. A. Clark also made high score in the rapid firing with 22 out of a possible 25.

The singles competition in the Tennis tournament came to a successful close just before the snow. Seyer was the winner over Wood in three well-contested games 7—9, 6—0, 6—2. The doubles unfortunately had to be called off before the first round was completed.

FALSE RUMORS AFLOAT.

Several erroneous impressions have got abroad in regard to military drill at this university. Briefly, let us review the matter. The outbreak of the present war awakened in many of our students an interest in military matters and a Canadian Officers' Training Corps was formed here in the fall of 1914. It was largely a student organization and many students voluntarily devoted time to its activities. Last year the University authorities gave notice in the calendar that they reserved the right to substitute military drill for the course of physical education required of all male students of the first two years. A large number of new students registered for the session of 1915-16, thereby accepting these conditions. Then came the order compulsory military drill would be substituted for physical training for all male students physically fit. A controversy arose in the Students' Union over the matter in regard to the spirit of compulsion implied by the order. As a result, the matter was a bone of contention and military training was not as popular as it otherwise might have been.

These conditions resulted in many false rumors being afloat. The rumors fall into two classes; those affecting the University as a state institution and those affecting the student body. Of the students it was said that some were unpatriotic because of their attitude. This was most unfair for much of the opposition to the military drill as applied, was taken on a point of principle of student self-government. Were any further proof of student patriotism necessary, reference to our Honor Roll would show the great number who have since gone forth to battle for freedom. Of the University it was said that she stood for conscription and practically enforced her students to enlist. It is not true that the university authorities coerced the students into joining overseas battalions. Indeed such action is entirely unnecessary in this University as about 300 students have already volunteered freely. Again, upon the formation of the 11th Field Ambulance section and the Company for the 196th, it was officially announced to the student body that no pressure would be brought to bear upon them to enlist but that each man could decide the question for himself. So, be clear on this point, no undue influence on student enlistment is applied or needed in the University of Alberta.

This session the University has exercised the right reserved in the calendar to require students of the first two years taking physical education to substitute military drill therefor. Besides this, quite a large class of students are voluntarily taking the C.O.T.C. officers' course.

We are pleased to welcome the first issue of "WUB" published by the Western Universities Battalion—196th. We take particular interest in it because it is but four months since "C" Company (Alberta) left the campus here to join the battalion at Camp Hughes. The magazine is breezy and cheerful and breathes the spirits of western university men. It is unique in that it claims to have over one thousand editors (which is hardly surprising in such a corps). This issue contains a history of the Battalion, illustrated with numerous pictures, and is on sale at the bookstore. We await with interest, further issues.

ALBERTA COLLEGE

Skating will soon be the order of the day; at least one would think so to see the men busily engaged fitting up the rink; of course the weather man will have something to say about it. While many of us will be glad to glide swiftly over the ice once more we cannot say we are sorry for the warm bright days that are enabling us to push ahead with our tennis tournament, and strong hopes are held that it will be completed before the snow comes to stay.

On Friday afternoon November the 3rd one would think some important event was taking place in the gymnasium, for cheering and yelling was almost loud enough to be deafening, and we would like to say that one would not be mistaken for thinking so, an exciting game of basket ball was taking place between the ladies of "Tin Alley" and "Peanut Heavens" (for so the ladies of the 2nd and 3rd floors had designated themselves). After much hard work and one casualty the ladies of "Peanut Heavens" were successful; the score being 16 while that of Tin Alley was 8.

ROBERTSON COLLEGE

The editor of last week's column referred to the deaths of Gregor S. Drummond and James R. Thomson, but we feel that we cannot pass on until we also have paid our tribute to their memory. Others have spoken of their soldierly qualities: we shall speak of them as we knew them best.

Drummond was one of the band of ten who entered Robertson College that first and ever-memorable session. His winsomeness speedily endeared him to us, and the better we came to know him the more we loved and honored him. Though a Celt by birth, there was in him a rich strain of Sassenack blood, and he combined in his person all that is best in the characters of the Highland Scot. He was singularly free from cant, and all that savoured of hypocrisy was anathema to him. Genial, generous, and gentlemanly, he was a loyal and trusty friend. He died as he had lived—bravely and unselfishly. His loss seems irreparable for it is not given to man to have many such friends in a life-time.

Thomson came to us from Westminster Hall during our second session. He was not long in proving his worth and, though he spoke but seldom in our Council meetings, his opinions always carried weight and commanded our respect. He was always willing to render any service within his power, and was not afraid to go out of his way to do a good turn. He possessed much of the dourness attributed to the Scot and he brought this to bear on his studies, refusing to give up even the most difficult task until he had mastered it. When principle was at stake he took a firm stand, refusing to budge a hairbreadth. His ready smile and consistent good-nature made him a general favourite. On the football field he was one of our leading stars but it was on the tennis-court that he shone most brightly.

Those men have gone, though it is hard for us to realise it, and our college life is the poorer. Yet we feel that they are not altogether lost to us. We cherish their memory; their example is ever before us; and their spirits are not far from each one of us. Their sacrifice will not be in vain if it purifies us from sordiness, pettiness, and selfishness as we feel it must. So long as their memory remains with us, our lives can never descend to the same low level again.

The following lines by Lauchlan MacLean Watt, the Scottish poet preacher give voice to our feelings at this time. They appeared in a recent number of the London "Times" and are entitled, "The Reapers"

"Red are the hands of the Reapers,
And the harvest is so white!
Red are the feet that are treading
The threshing floors by night!
And, on the young brows,
dripping
As with the dew of morn,
Deep rose-red are the wound-
ings,
Like scars of a crown of thorns.

Tired, so many, with reaping—
Tired with treading the gram
Still they lie, in their sleeping,
Low in the Valley of Pain,
Never again to be quaffing
The joy of life, like wine;
Never again to be laughing
In Youth's glad hour divine.

Birds shall sing in the branches,
Children dance by the shore;
But they who shared the red reaping
Shall come back never more.
Let whoso can forget them,
Walking life's noisy ways;
We who have looked on the
Reapers,
Go quietly, all our days."

The administration failed to raise sufficient money to complete the building fund, and the students, tired of waiting for the new building, decided to help supply the needed money, will do the entire work of excavating themselves.

 An effort is on foot in McMaster University to restore the academic gown to its former place of dignity and prominence. Evidently the wearing of the gown has been very unpopular of late years with McMasters' professors and students. (Is there a conservative East after all?)

All exchanges received to date are crowded full of military news. The Canadian Universities are playing no small part in this, the tragedy of the ages.

SERVICE NEWS LETTER from SOLDIERS' COMFORT CLUB

No. 32, Nov. 9th, 1916.

Edited by W. Muir Edwards.

Letters this week are from L.C.C.C.F. Carswell (Oct. 15); J. W. Bainbridge (Oct. 15); E. F. Maunsell (Oct. 16) and also indirectly a letter from G. Robinson, Oct. 29. The overseas letters give particulars of the heavy action of the 15th of September and succeeding days, due to which a number of our men appeared in the casualty lists. I print these letters as fully as possible. Robinson's letter gives news of the 196th. At Montreal they met Stevens, who is now with the 6th University Company, and Cheeseman, Morrish and Hustler who are in 4th year Medicine at McGill. They are most likely on the ocean as this is written. Carswell's and Bainbridge's letters overlap slightly and I therefore make extracts.

Carswell writes: "Here starts my long deferred letter to the Collaborators of the News Letter which has been such a pleasure to students at the front since its beginning. As usual I have had news. Our old friend Lavell has paid the supreme sacrifice while doing his duty steadily under the enemy barrage. S. Bainbridge was wounded at the same time although how seriously I do not know. I had the great pleasure a few days ago of meeting N. F. W. Graham, Locke, Tiffin, Corbett etc. of the 11th Can. Field Ambulance. They were all looking well, but agreed that they would take a chance on crossing the Atlantic in a canoe. Yesterday Bob Williamson dropped in to see Loppie and I for a few minutes. He is driving a bus attached to the 11th Imperial Division I believe.

I have heard it as a rumor but have been unable to verify it that Jesse James of the 5th Batt'n who was wounded in the head, had died in hospital. I sincerely hope the rumor is false. I saw Jessie only a couple of weeks ago and he was evidently as keen as ever. I have not heard from any of the boys who have gone down the line recently. Charley Reilly has made Blighty with a burst ear-drum. I had a narrow escape last trip in as my clothing was cut in three places by shrapnel and my steel helmet bent in directly on top. It is as close as I ever want it to come.

Reg. Henry went down sick recently. Loppie saw "Doc." Carmichael who he says is to get the D.C.M. for conspicuous bravery. Well I must close with greetings to Varsity and Alberta. ("Doc" referred to is A. W. Carmichael No. 2046 Tr. 1st Can. Div. Cav. B.E.F.; Ed.)

Bainbridge writes: "I suppose by the time this reaches you it will be common news that Sept. 15th is now added to the historical red letter days of "The Pats". After a week's travelling including long route marches we reached the scene of action. We were almost immediately marched up into the firing line. About 4 p.m. we were notified that at 6 p.m. our battalion had to make an attack. It was while we were marching over the ridge of a hill, in Indian file, that the "straffe" began. Fritz saw us from an observation balloon, and immediately opened up heavy artillery fire on us. It was fine to see our boys rush on through the rain of shells and high explosives, and then down the hill facing rifle and machine gun fire, on to the "jumping off trench." Of course many fell, and my brother and I were left on the ridge to attend to the wounded. A continual line of troops kept crossing to and fro all night and Fritz shelled the ridge furiously all the time. No sooner had they reached the "jumping off" trench than our barrage opened up and the word was passed along to prepare to advance, then over they went and took two lines of trenches. Fritz did as much damage as he could with rifle and machine gun until our boys reached his trench and then hundreds of the mean cowards dropped their weapons and put up their hands crying "Mercy Kamrad". Of course, they were taken prisoners—quite a different spirit than that shown by our boys. It was a great military success, and our general told us afterwards that what the "Pats" accomplished on that day was a feat second to none, since the "Big Push" commenced. We had quite a number of casualties, but nothing to compare with those of Fritz. Lieut. C. A. Grant got a severe wound close to the shoulder of his left arm before he reached the "jumping off" trench. I put him on a stretcher and saw him again just as he left the second dressing station. Space forbids lengthy comments, but suffice it for me to say that in Mr. Grant we lost a fearless, gritty platoon commander, and can only wish him a good time in "Blighty" and a speedy recovery. Galbraith got four wounds in the scrap. We had a letter from him since, informing us that he was having a good time in a London hospital. Karl Murray, an Arts freshman, was seriously wounded. After the 15th we had about ten days rest, consisting chiefly of route marches with full kit over stretches of ten to fifteen miles. Then they thought we ought to be in the best of shape, so we were booked for another "trip through Hades." This time we were in close supports to two other battalions (one of them from Edmonton) of our brigade. The attack took place in the early hours of a Sunday morning. Unfortunately our brigade was "out of luck" this time, and things did not go so well. Our company was divided, part being detailed as a "carrying party" to the attacking battalions, and went over with them as a kind of third wave. It was in that party and on that trip that our comrade George Lavell, of U. of A. met his death. He was carrying bombs over to the objective trench, over a distance of about 500 yards. It was on the return trip, under Fritz's heavy barrage, just as they were getting back to the "jumping off" trench, that a big shell exploded, part of it striking George on the head and killing him almost instantly. In George we lost a splendid soldier and a very highly esteemed comrade. He was often chosen to fill responsible positions, had just been made a section commander, and we now realize that we have lost a valuable asset to our platoon. My brother and I were with the rest of the company in close supports. At the time of the attack we advanced into the front lines, and very soon came in for heavy shelling from Fritz. While my brother Sidney was attending a wounded man a shell exploded close to him and shattered his left arm. One day we passed a clearing dressing station and met with many of the 11th Field. They all looked well and soldiering seems to be agreeing with them. All the other boys, including Barney Lopston are so far as I know O.K. and still "carrying on." Earl Hoover (second year Science) was wounded under the arm on our last trip in, and is now in Leicester, England, and evidently getting on O.K."

Maunsell writes: "Just a line to say that all is well with the U. of A. crew in the old 10th. As you mentioned in the last "News Letter", Lieut. Lutz has been killed in action. I was close to him when it happened. Fritz sent over a bombing party early in the morning and we had a lively little exchange of love tokens before he was compelled to retire. Lutz received a bad smash from a stick bomb and died in the dressing station. He is buried just outside one of the villages here. Like the rest of old Varsity's officers who have made the great sacrifice, he was hit while cheering on his men. James has been wounded and I hear has bagged a D.C.M. for holding a trench by himself for four hours until supports came, but then Jesse James always was fond of pulling off stunts. The war of the big guns is ceaseless down here, both day and night and old Fritz daren't send up an aeroplane to direct his fire so that he shoots pretty wild. His snipers down here are not as good as the ones in the salient. Got caught in the wire at the back of our trench one morning and had six of the beggars potting at me and they didn't even make an outer. Yours in khaki."

The 202nd are still in Edmonton and are giving a big dance in the South Side Rink to-night. Letter just received from Donald Black from Artillery School in Kingston reports that both he and Blain are working hard.
